

HOOSIER WRITER MEETS DEATH IN AUTO ACCIDENT

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR GENE STRATTON PORTER TO BE HELD IN LOS ANGELES. THURSDAY—MOVEMENT TO MAKE LEMBERT STATE PARK MAY BE HASTENED BY NOVELIST'S DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 7.—Funeral services for Gene Stratton Porter, novelist, fatally injured here last night in a collision between her automobile and a street car, will be held at Los Angeles Thursday, according to tentative arrangements made today. Mrs. Porter's daughter Mrs. J. L. Meehan of this city, is awaiting telegrams from Eastern relatives before making the final arrangements. Charles D. Porter, the writer's husband is expected here Wednesday from Rome City, Ind.

Although a coroner's inquiry will be held probably Thursday, police who investigated the accident said tonight they were convinced it was unavoidable.

Had Slowed Down
James W. Cowdy, chauffeur for Mrs. Porter, was again questioned, as were the motorman and conductor of the street car. Cowdy, who was slightly hurt in the crash, said he had slowed down almost to a stop to allow a street car to pass and did not notice that another street car was bearing down on him from the opposite direction until it was too late.

Many telegrams of messages of condolence came to the writers surviving relations here today from friends and business associates in southern California, where she of late had been supervising the filming of a number of her stories from prominent men and women of her own home state, Indiana and the nation.

The death of Mrs. Gene Stratton Porter, Hoosier novelist and author of many books on bird, insect and woodland life in northern Indiana which occurred in Los Angeles, Cal., late Saturday as a result of an automobile accident, may hasten the movement began several years ago for making the "Lumberlost" made famous by Mrs. Porter a state reservation.

Richard Lieber, director of the state department of conservation stated last night that the state conservation commission has had the plan presented to it for some time, and that if land can be purchased through popular or individual subscription and presented to the state, the conservation commission would be glad to accept it as a unit in the state park system.

FEAR LACK OF TRAINED FARMERS IN INDIANA

Danger of a lack of trained farmers in Indiana to keep agriculture where it belongs as the backbone of the state's prosperity is indicated in a report just issued by the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. Not only is a marked decrease in the enrollment of "Junior Farmers" noted in the state college of agriculture, but a survey of thirty-four of the principal agricultural institutions of the country this condition to be general.

The registration in Purdue University at Lafayette for 1924-25 is 374 as compared to 724 for 1914-15, the report states. This is a decrease of 352 over that of ten years ago and a drop of 158 from last year. 1916 was the banner year with 806 and 1920 touched the peak of the after-the-war boom with 764, but since then there has been a steady increase which has culminated in the new low mark this year. A similar decline has been noted throughout the country, the average enrollment having dropped from 458 in 1918 to 289 in the present year.

"Where are our trained agricultural leaders of the future to come from if this decrease continues?" is the question raised by Henry Sandholt, Executive Secretary of the Institute in announcing the findings of the investigation of farm educational conditions. "This is the vital question in the development of our basis industry. We need greater efficiency in agricultural production, better feeding, better breeding and better farm management. We need more trained leaders and the 'Junior Farmers' are the ones upon whom we have to depend for the future betterment of farm conditions. The college training imparts vision as well as concentrated experience. Subtract it from our national farm equation and we suffer an untold loss."

The cause of this marked decrease in agricultural college enrollment is probably due to the fact, the Institute's report concludes, that farmers have not had the money to send their sons to get this needed training and because they have not the vision to see that there is bound to be a big improvement in conditions which would make agriculture a more profitable and attractive like work for the younger generation.

AGED WOMAN IS ATTACKED BY TWO STRANGERS

BANDITS ATTEMPT TO FORCE MRS. JANE EASTER, AGE 77, OF FAIRVIEW TO TELL WHERE HER MONEY WAS—ASKED FOR WATER FOR THE RADIATOR

(Brazil Times)
An outrage was committed by two strangers late Thursday night when they made an attack on Mrs. Jane Easter widow of the late Squire Easter at her home at Fairview, northwest of the city and tried to compel her to surrender what money she had in the house.

Mrs. Easter was preparing to retire for the night when some one knocked at the back door. She asked what they wanted and they replied they would like to borrow a bucket to carry water for the radiator of their automobile. Mrs. Easter opened the back door and handed them a small bucket but as she did so, the two men one on either side of the door, grasped her by the arms and dragged her down the steps and out of the house into the yard, where they threw her down on the ground. One of the bandits held his hand over her mouth so she could not scream and demanded that she tell them where her money was hidden. Mrs. Easter told them she did not have any money in the house. One of the men went in the house and searched the drawers while the other tried to force her to tell where her money was, but finally the bandits became frightened and disappeared.

Mrs. Easter went back to the house put on her shoes and a shawl and hurried to the home of her son, down the road, where the alarm was given but no trace of the two bandits could be found.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF STATE MEETS

DEPAUW UNIVERSITY FACULTY MEMBERS ARE PROMINENT ON SATURDAY PROGRAM OF MEETING IN INDIANAPOLIS—PROF. SWEET TELLS OF CENTENNIAL

The Indiana Historical Society held its annual conference at the Claypool Hotel in Indianapolis on Friday and Saturday, December 5 and 6. Although there wasn't as many persons present as last year, the meeting was a very enthusiastic one.

Members of the DePauw University Faculty figured importantly on Saturday's program. In the morning, Prof. Oscar Williams talked about the Indiana Historical Society and its work. In the afternoon Dr. W. W. Sweet told of the Putnam County Centennial. At noon, the History Section of the Indiana State Teacher's Association held a luncheon in the Florentine Room at the Claypool Hotel. Dr. Sweet, Dr. Carson and Professors Nully and Manhart of DePauw were present.

At six-thirty Saturday evening the Society of Indiana Pioneers held their annual banquet in the Riley Room. There were about 350 of the 500 present. With the exception of the several pilgrimages to places of historical interest and the annual spring party, this closed the year's meeting of the society.

REV. RAWLINSON AGAIN HONORED

FORMER GREENCASTLE MAN RAISED TO RANK OF MONSIGNOR WITH PH. D. DEGREE—WILL BE CONFERRED ON DECEMBER 16—WAS PASTOR OF BRAZIL CHURCH FROM 1910 UNTIL 1921—BOYHOOD SPENT IN GREENCASTLE

A singular honor has been bestowed upon Rev. A. J. Rawlinson, chaplain of St. Mary-of-the-Woods college who has been raised to a domestic prelate and also received the degree of Ph. D., by a grant of Rome. The rank of domestic prelate carries the title of monsignor and has been granted to Father Rawlinson for his excellent record as a pastor and as an army chaplain. The degree of doctor of philosophy was conferred in recognition of the special study and his teaching record.

Father Rawlinson is one of several priests in the diocese of Indianapolis, who were granted higher ranks by Rome upon the recommendation of Bishop Joseph Cartrand, of Indianapolis, who has recently returned from Rome, where he had an audience with Pope Pius XI.

The honors will be publicly conferred upon Father Rawlinson in a ceremony Tuesday, Dec. 16 to be held in the Conventual church. They will be conferred by the bishop. That evening a reception and program will be given in the Cecilian auditorium in compliment to the newly made Monsignor Rawlinson.

Father Rawlinson was born in Ithaca, New York. When a young boy he moved with his family to Greencastle, where he graduated from high school. He then attended the St. Gregory Seminary at Cincinnati, O., and later St. Bernard college in the southern part of Indiana, where he was ordained to the priesthood in 1903. He was stationed at Evansville until 1910 when he was transferred to Brazil, where he remained until 1917, when he entered the service as a chaplain. He spent a year across and returned to his charge in Brazil in 1919.

He succeeded Rev. James Ryan as chaplain at St. Mary-of-the-Woods in 1921. He is at the head of the department of philosophy and is the principal authority in the diocese of Indiana on moral theology. He is an active member of the American Legion and is on the examining board of the diocese.—Terre Haute Tribune.

Rev. Rawlinson, or "Gus" Rawlinson as he was known by Greencastle people, lived here during his entire boyhood. His father, for many years, was manager of the Greencastle Gas Company. He was pastor of the Annunciation church of Brazil from 1910 until 1921 with the exception of little over a year that he spent in World War. He is a member of the France as a chaplain during the Brazil lodge of Elks and the Brazil

Council, Knights of Columbus and had many friends in both Greencastle and Brazil among the protestant faith as well as in the Catholic church all of whom will be pleased to learn of this new honor conferred upon him.

The 1925 automobile licence plates must be purchased by January 1, this year according to A. R. Carmichael, State Highway officer for Putnam County and vicinity. Truck and chauffeur license must also be procured by the first of January, he says. Auto owners formerly were allowed until February 15 to secure their new license plates.

The sale of the 1925 plates will not start until December 15, Carmichael also reports. Due to lack of fac. fold cards a part of the application equipment the opening of the sale of new plates has been delayed from December 12 until the later date.

The plates will be sold in Greencastle at the Chenoweth & Webb garage on Franklin street this year, instead of the Moffett, Dobbs & Christie sales room.

JOSEPH T. DOBELL CALLED BY DEATH

END TO DEPAUW UNIVERSITY REGISTRAR COMES AT PUTNAM COUNTY HOSPITAL. AFTER LONG ILLNESS—FUNERAL TO BE SATURDAY MORNING AT RESIDENCE

The death of Joseph Tomsett Dobell, age 73 years Registrar of DePauw University, occurred at the Putnam County Hospital at 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning after an extended illness of liver trouble. Professor Dobell had been in failing health for several years and last April became seriously ill. His condition improved somewhat during the summer and it was thought that he was on the way to recovery, when he suffered a relapse, and owing to his critical condition, he was taken from his home, 519 Anderson street, to the Putnam County Hospital, last Wednesday.

Mr. Dobell was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, November 9, 1851. He graduated from DePauw University in 1874 and for a number of years, taught school. In 1901, he was called to a place as teacher of mathematics, in the DePauw Academy. In addition to teaching in the Academy he was also placed in charge of the Registrar's office and was registrar until 1923, at which time, his title was changed to that of University Recorder.

Prof. Dobell received his A. M. degree from DePauw in 1909. He was one of the organizers of the Alumni Association of DePauw University and was for several years its treasurer. As the University Registrar he was intimately in touch with DePauw students and is well remembered by alumni as well as the present Student Body.

Mr. Dobell was married to Miss Alice Cooper in Greencastle in 1874. Mrs. Dobell died in 1912. One son, Roy Herbert Dobell, who is an architect in Aberdeen, Washington, survives. Two other sons, Frederick W. and Milton C. having preceded the father in death. Mr. Dobell had made his home with an aunt of Mrs. Dobell, Mrs. Ella Barlow, 519 Anderson street for many years.

The funeral services will be held at College Avenue Church Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. Services will be conducted by Rev. T. Howard Taylor, pastor of the Greencastle Methodist Church, Dr. S. B. Town, a member of the University Faculty and Rev. Victor Raphael, pastor of the Greencastle Presbyterian Church.

The Greencastle Campfire Girls which have been organized a short time are doing much toward helping charitable institutions. The Club has about twenty members. Miss Mary Case is guardian of the organization and Miss Taylor an instructor in DePauw University, is assistant guardian.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DIES AT AGE OF 88

The death of Joshua H. Kirk, a Civil War veteran, occurred at the home of his niece, Mrs. N. S. Woods, northwest of Reelsville, at 10:30 o'clock Sunday night. Infirmities of old age was the cause of his death.

Mr. Kirk was a member of the Presbyterian Church and of the G. A. R. With the exception of a step-sister who lives in Anderson, he leaves no immediate relatives. Eight nieces and 8 nephews survive. He had made his home with Mrs. Woods for some time.

The funeral will be held from the home of Mrs. Woods Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The body will be taken to Pendleton for interment.

HOOSIER A. C. NEXT ON THE TIGER'S CARD

DEPAUW BASKETBALL COACH MAY MAKE SOME CHANGES IN LINEUP BEFORE THE THURSDAY NIGHT GAME—WARD LOOKS MIGHTY GOOD

Although not entirely satisfied by the teamwork displayed in the tilt with Danville Normal Coach Morrison seemed confident in DePauw's ability to go through a successful season. The Tigers had little difficulty in conquering Danville and the battle was hardly a real test upon which to depend.

Still working at full speed, the Tigers will put in another week of practice for the Hoosier A. C. game, the date of which has been changed so often that it still remains doubtful whether it be played on Thursday night.

The A. C.'s have a powerful combination and it is believed that they will put up a real test for the Methodists to overcome. It is reported that the Hoosiers have a flashy quintet of former college and high school stars, all veterans of the court and are prepared to fight DePauw to the limit.

Doe Wilson, playing at forward for the Jangleman, did not put up the brand of basketball that was expected of him and it is probable that a shift will be made in the DePauw quintet before the A. C. Tussle. Ward flashed a clever, speedy game during the short period that he was on the floor and he may be delegated to step into Wilson's berth.

Puckett has a possible chance for the regular floor guard position if his speed continues to offset Struck's superior shooting ability. Struck failed to nail one of his over-the-beams shots in the Friday night skirmish, but he will be deadly against any team using a five man defense on one end of the floor. Sturridge with his long shots, will also be a big obstacle to a team depending on massed guarding.

Hirt seems to again be in line for an all-state and all-western back guard position this year. "Big Lou" is guarding better than ever and his encouragement from the down-floor position keeps the forwards working at full speed.

Stewart of Bainbridge is another DePauw netter in line for a good many honorary choices this season. Jack played rings around every forward in sight and his shooting was a long ways above par.

MISS ADELAIDE THOMAS OPENS BEAUTY PARLOR

Miss Adelaide Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas, of this city, and a recent graduate of the Chicago Hair Dressing Academy, will open a beauty parlor on the second floor of the First National Bank building, on Tuesday.

Miss Thomas has two large and convenient rooms on the second floor of the building and will have a modern and up-to-date and fully equipped establishment. The business name adopted by Miss Thomas for her establishment is "The Art Beauty Shoppe".

Bee Hive Rebecca Lodge No. 106 will meet in regular session Monday evening, at 8 o'clock. All members of the degree staff are urged to be present, as there will be initiation of candidates.

Mrs. S. C. Sayers and Mrs. Virgil Grimes drove to Indianapolis, Monday to attend a Bridge party.

AUTO GOES OVER DEER CREEK BANK ONE MAN IS HURT

TERRE HAUTE MAN RETURNING HOME FROM SHRINE MEETING IS INJURED AND CADILLAC COUPE IS WRECKED—TAKEN TO BRAZIL

E. W. Miller, of Terre Haute was severely cut and bruised about the head, chest and right hip, about 12:30 o'clock Saturday morning when his Cadillac coupe went over the steep embankment at the east end of the Deer Creek bridge on the National road.

Miller and R. E. Burgett of Evansville, were returning from attending the Shriner's initiation at Indianapolis and Burgett was driving the car while Miller was asleep in the back seat of the car. When Burgett reached the fork in the road just east of Deer Creek Bridge not knowing the road, he turned to follow the old route of the highway and the car skidded and went over the steep embankment, the car being badly wrecked.

Brazil Shriners who were following the car took the two men into Brazil and Miller was taken to Dr. Pell's office where his injuries were patched up. Burgett escaped uninjured. The damaged car was taken to Brazil by the Turner Wrecker after working over three hours to get it back up the muddy embankment.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE PROGRESS REPORTED GOOD

PUTNAM COUNTY TUBERCULOSIS SOCIETY EXPECTS TO EXCEED ANY FORMER YEAR'S SALE—DELTA THETA TAU HAS CHARGE OF SALE IN GREENCASTLE

The Christmas Seal Sale by the Putnam County Tuberculosis Association, is progressing remarkably well according to Dr. W. M. McGaughey, president of the local organization. The Delta Theta Tau sorority, which has charge of the sale of the Christmas Seals in Greencastle, is meeting with wonderful success among the people of Greencastle.

The sale in the county is also going good, according to Dr. McGaughey. Although the sale has just started 150,000 have already been sent to different parts of the county. Several points have reported their allotment sold and are asking for more. From early indications it is probable that all former records of Christmas Seal sales in this county will be broken this year.

DEATH OF JAMES A. JOHNSTON

The death of James A. Johnston, age 40, of Indianapolis, a former Putnam County man, occurred in an Indianapolis hospital, Saturday night. Mr. Johnston was taken to the hospital to undergo an operation but died while under the influence of the anesthetic. He is survived by a widow and one daughter. He was an only brother of Miss Emma Johnston, who is employed as cashier at the Allen Brothers store, in Greencastle. Two Uncles, John and Samuel Johnston, of Madison township, and another uncle, George Johnston, who lives in Indianapolis, also survive.

Mr. Johnston was born and lived his early life in Madison township, west of Greencastle. He had been employed as a telegraph operator on the Big Four railroad, in Indianapolis for the past twenty years.

The body will be brought to Greencastle Tuesday, and funeral services held from the Greencastle Christian Church at 1:30 o'clock, conducted by the pastor Rev. Levi Marshall. Interment will be in Forest Hill cemetery.

Dr. William D. Alexander, of Evanston, Illinois, was here Sunday to see Mary E. Hester, east Seminary street who has been ill for several months. Dr. Alexander was born in Gosport, and is a former DePauw student, having graduated from the University in the '80's.

A LETTER FROM STOCKHOLDERS, BUSINESS MEN AND FRIENDS

State Regulation by the Public Service Commissions throughout the country has been the most effective means of safeguarding the interests of both the consuming and investing public and there is nothing more important at this time than thorough support and understanding by the public of the work of the Public Service Commission of Indiana. It is to be regretted that the Public Service Commission of Indiana has from time to time been subjected to unwarranted and unfair attacks. Threats have been made to repeal the Public Service Commission Law.

The enactment of that law was necessary to correct evils of the most serious sort which had grown up in many localities, where the utilities were wholly under the control of the local government. In doing this, the state merely repossessed itself of a power which it had always had.

While the purpose of the Public Service Commission act aimed at the maximum of service at the minimum of cost and to prevent unfair and unjust discrimination, many cities and many citizens who believe such a law necessary, became dissatisfied with its application. Whenever the law was so applied as to reduce the rate for a given public service, it was popular with the public in that locality and by the same token when it was applied to increase utility rates, it was unpopular. Some persons could see no purpose in the law except that of reducing utility rates. That there could be any justification for increasing a rate, was not by them accepted as possible. In brief there were a great many who appeared to take the position that a utility had no rights which the law was bound to respect.

It must be remembered that the Commission has had a very difficult path to treat in its attempt to do justice to both the public and the utilities and as evidence of the fact that it has attempted to deal justly with both sides, we find that the criticism has come from both sides—that is from the public and from the utilities.

The critics have oftentimes overlooked the fact that the war and its aftermath brought conditions that make it exceedingly difficult at times for the Commission to make a decision that is satisfactory to all.

The records of the Commission will show that the utilities have as much cause for complaint as the public and that the Commission has always tried to give the public the benefit of its decisions. That is a proper attitude so long as the utilities are permitted to earn enough to enable them to properly discharge their functions. If there is no reflection on the members of the Indiana Commission to say that they have not been able at all times to satisfy both the public and the utilities because it would take an infallible Commission composed of infallible men to do that Errors will be made, and the fact that they are made is not sufficient cause for abolishing the commission. A careful consideration of the acts of the Commission will convince anyone who desires to know the actual facts that the members of the Commission have earnestly and honestly tried to perform their troublesome duties with justice to the public and to the utilities.

A TIMELY RAIN

Once upon a time there was a long spell of dry weather. What made it all the more wonderful is the fact that this astonishing event took place in Britain. Strange, but none the less true!

After several weeks of incessant sunshine there was a refreshing shower of rain.

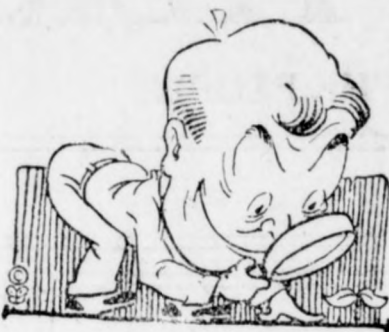

"This rain will do a lot of good," remarked Mr. Blank to his Irish gardener.

"It will that, sir," returned Pat, "shure, an' hour of it now will do more good in five minutes than a month of it would do in a week at any other time."

THE BIG WASH

"We are so cordial," said one of the two washtubs.

"So cordial," said the second wash tub.

"We welcome a big wash," said the first washtub.

"We have fun when there is a big wash," said the second washtub. "There is always a chance some of the water may spill over and that is an excitement."

"Then we like the soapy, foamy water."

"And we like all the activity and fun of having the clothes moved about as they come in to accept our invitation to join the Big Washing Party."

"Yes," agreed the first washtub, "that is true. But you know the one who washes the clothes says, every single week:

"Dear me, what a big wash."

"She doesn't seem to like it so much. But still we can't help being cordial, you know."

"Now and again she seems to be very busy over other things, and a week goes by when no washing is done at all."

"Then there is high excitement, and she says:

"My, my, what an enormous wash, what a simply huge wash."

"Well, you know we feel that as long as we did no entertaining the week before, we should surely make up for it the following week."

"Then when she is ironing, she says:

"Gracious, but I didn't realize the wash was as big as all this. It just seems as though I couldn't get through."

"Dear Me, What a Big Wash!"

"And, the joke of it is, that as she is ironing and as she is saying this, the playful soiled clothes are being joined by other playful soiled clothes for the next week's wash."

"It is a great joke."

"A great joke," said the second washtub.

And the two washtubs then sang their washtub song:

Washtub one,
Washtub two,
Oh, what splendid
Work we do.
We keep the clothes
So nice and clean,
We're always cordial,
We're never mean.

Washtub one,
Washtub two,
Soapy washtubs,
Clothes love you.
They come along
And splashily sing
With you this song
Where Soap is king.

They also know
That to see you
Dressing up
They needn't do.
They come along
Just as they are,
With dirt and spots
From near and far.

But you don't mind
How dirty they seem,
You welcome them
With your soap-and cream.
Oh, washtub one
And washtub two,
You will always
Always do.

The two washtubs did not sing now. They took a little rest, for soon another big wash would be coming along and the washtubs were going to be fresh and ready for their party.

And no matter what anyone said about the big wash, the two washtubs liked it, for what would they do with themselves if there weren't big washes?

Washtubs would have little fun in life if clothes were always clean!

SAVING PENNIES

Sometimes it seems as though grown-up people had all the money they possibly could have.

She Saved Every Penny.

True, they don't admit it. They will often say if you ask them for some.
"What! Do you think money grows on bushes?"
And you know, of course, perfectly well that money doesn't grow on bushes, but, you know, too, that they have more than bushes have, so that you think it is rather a foolish speech for them to make.

But, though they always seem to have a little change, and money in their pockets or their purses, and don't seem to be entirely without, as you are often, they have so much to buy with their money—food and clothes and all sorts of things.

A little girl had heard of some grownups who had put aside every twenty-five-cent piece, or quarter, which they received in change for larger amounts of money.

They used these quarters for holidays and trips and all such things.

"We never had enough to go anywhere until we did this," they said.

"When vacation time came we felt as though we needed a fair amount of money, and there wasn't enough."

"But though it is quite, quite difficult, to put aside every quarter, still when you think it is going to be for a beautiful vacation, it is not so hard to do it."

"And you enjoy your vacation so thoroughly."

Now the little girl never got quarters in change—or very seldom—because she didn't have the big sums of money which could be changed into quarters.

But she said to herself:

"I do have pennies. Sometimes they are change from a five-cent piece when I've only wanted something that cost one penny."

"Then I have four pennies in change. Sometimes my daddy and my mother give me pennies, and sometimes I earn pennies running errands and doing chores and all such things."

"I do believe I'll save pennies, and then when I get a big amount I'll buy a nice book."

For this little girl wanted to own a library of her own more than anything else in the world.

On her birthday and at Christmas she received books for presents, but she thought it would be so nice, too, to get books out of her very own money.

Then she would have her own real library. She had been given a little old bookcase her mother had had as a child, but at present there were not many books in it.

She would like to fill it full of books. She would like to own books so on rainy days and cold days, or when she sat under the pine trees in the summer or up in the old, gnarled apple tree, she could read and re-read her books.

If she owned her books they would be as her own family. How beautiful that would be. Her own family of books!

So she saved every penny she received.

She found that the pennies counted up pretty fast and before long she bought a book. It was a beautiful book, with many characters in it she loved, and she wanted to be able to pick them up and hear them talk at any time—just as she loved it when she could call across the street to her little friend and ask her to come over.

By degrees she began filling her library shelves. After a while she had books of adventure, stories of other children, stories of animals, beautiful books with lovely pictures—oh, such dear, dear books!

And the most wonderful thing of all was to think that even a little girl could get big things such as books which she really wanted out of little, tiny pennies—just because she gave the little, tiny pennies a chance to become bigger amounts of money. Big enough to get big books!

And her library was her very own. Her beautiful, very own library!

She was so very proud of it and so very happy because of it.

There Were Not Many Books.

HOW TO DROP OFF

A man called upon his medical adviser and said: "Doctor, I can't go to sleep at night."

"Insomnia, eh?"

"That's it," asserted the patient.

"There are ways and means of combating that," declared the doctor.

"You think you are hopelessly wakeful, but mental effort has a great deal to do with getting you to sleep."

"Just imagine you are walking a tight rope 1,000 feet from the ground. Step by step you advance on this tight rope."

"Yes?" the patient inquired.

"You'll soon drop off."

HAPPY PROSPECT INDEED

"You say they anticipate a very happy married life?"

"My dear, all their relatives are so angry with them because they got married they've vowed they'll never visit them."

Afraid to Come Home

Father's gloom is sad to note. The orators controlled him. And made him quite forget to vote.

The way that mother told him.

Inviting Contrast

"All the boys are bragging about what a safe and orderly place Crimston Gulch is."

"Yep," said Cactus Joe. "There was a good deal of complaint till I worked out a scheme that 'nd make the old home town shine out by comparison."

"What's the scheme?"

"The city gives an annual excursion to Chicago.—Washington Star."

Where Do Pills Go?

"Well, here you are," said the doctor, "a pill for the kidneys, a tablet for the indigestion, and another pill for the nerves."

"But, look here, doctor," said the patient, "how will the little beggars know where to go when they're inside?"

Punctilious

"I have enjoyed this bridge game, but I must get home now."

"Why, it is only five o'clock, dearie."

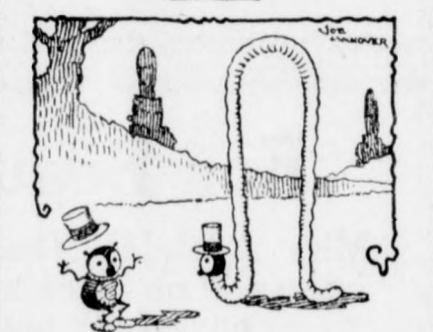

"True, but I always make it a point to wash the breakfast dishes in time for supper."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Charming Winter Hat of Black Felt, Velvet Trim

Black felt with velvet bow and band, with brim bound with black velvet to help retain its shape, are the interesting features of this chapeau.

Rainy-Day Precautions in Care of Wearables

Wet garments should be dried at once and properly or they will mildew and get out of shape. Coats should be brushed to remove any dust which the dampness is likely to hold, then placed on a hanger where there will be a free circulation of air. It is sometimes desirable to press a garment when it is nearly dry to restore the surface, finish and proper creasings. In such a case, put a piece of thin, white cloth between the iron and the material.

Skirts should be brushed also and put on a hanger of the right shape.

Umbrellas should be dried by placing on their handles with the tip up. This is to prevent rotting of the fabric where the ribs come together. Avoid putting an umbrella up when it is wet, as it bends the ribs to stretch the wet cloth over them, and the umbrella is never likely to close properly afterwards. Never permit an umbrella rack to be crowded full as some one is sure to force the point of an umbrella through the cover of another one.

Damp shoes should be dried slowly, otherwise the leather will crack, and after they are dry they should be dressed to renew the finish.

Gay-Colored Scarf an Important Accessory

The scarf is distinctly the most important novelty of the season among accessories of dress. The fashion has grown in an amazing manner, representing the genius of the best designers, and now the greater number of Parisian gowns have the scarf as a feature, and the separate scarf is shown in every conceivable type and pattern.

With the preparation for cold weather, a variety of muffler scarfs are shown, in gay-colored woods of thistledown weight, and in the jersey silks. These are usually double-faced and of two colors. Some of the latest are made of a solid color, scarlet, orange, green, white, with wide end border and fringe of black.

Other chic little scarfs to be worn with the tailored frocks and sports suits are woven in gay striped silk, copying the Roman sash, with knotted fringe. The wool variant is knitted in these colors or in large plaids and checks.

Beaded Jewelry Holds Favor Among Novelties

Bead jewelry and trinkets of semi-precious stones are apparently more fashionable than ever before, and the colors and designs grow more and more intriguing. Rock crystal, rose quartz, amber, jade, lapis and the other popular materials are now shown in beads as large as marbles.

The choker necklace of large bead balls is considered smartest. It is now very chic to wear one bracelet made to match the necklace, the beads of such size as to give the impression of burdensome ornaments.

Chains of turquoise are much worn. The most charming among the colored necklaces is one of peking glass—an adorable shade of blue, most nearly described as "periwinkle." From the chain is pendant a medallion of the glass, delicately carved. The pendant to match is shown with many of the pretty necklaces of rose quartz, emerald, turquoise, amethyst and matrix.

Band of Fur on Skirt Adds to Ensemble Garb

A noticeable feature of several of the smartest ensemble costumes is the band of fur around the edge of the skirt. The coat extends to this band and the effect is that of a fur-bordered coat. This is a distinctly new note which is exploited by a number of the best houses.

A strong rival of the twilled materials is found in softer finished wools of which probably the most noteworthy is kasha. Returning travelers from Paris brought word that beige and natural kasha was pre-eminent the favorite of smart French women and on this side of the water its vogue promises to be equally great. Black kasha, given character by touches of white, Chinese red and bright blue, appears again and again in the showings of well-known houses and these models are among the most interesting of the newest frocks.

Valuable minutes

In the few minutes required to run your eye over these advertising columns, you may learn of something that will serve your convenience for years.

Rather valuable few minutes!

You aren't spending time when you are reading advertisements. You are saving both time and money. Each day advertisers help you to compare values and prices. They tell you where you can secure the best and most serviceable at lowest cost.

Advertised goods are more dependable than goods unadvertised. They can't afford to be otherwise.

Make a daily habit of reading the advertisements. It pays.

Mistakes in buying are costly—avoid them by reading advertisements
